IS MITCHELL PLAYING TO THE GALLERIES

TRIAL JUDGE STRIKES BACK AT THE DEFENDANT'S COUSEL

Captain Paul Foley, Judge Advocate of the Shenandoah Navy of Enquiry, Represents the Testimony of Margaret Ross Landsdowne Widow of Commander Landsdowne, He Asks For a Chance to Refute Her Statements, and Is Refused Permission, They Will Remain in the Records of the Case.

The Mitchell court martial at Washington refused Friday to strike out the testimony of Mrs. Margaret Ross Landsdowne or to hear out of order Captain Paul Foley, judge advocate of the Shenandoah navy court of inquiry in reply to her charge that he had sought to influence her testimony in the statement she was to make before the naval court.

Colonel Sherman Moreland, chief of the Mitchell prosecution, moved to eliminate from the record the statement of the widow of the commanding officer of the Shenandoah on the ground that it related to facts developed subsequent to the offense cited against Colonel Mitchell in the charges of conduct prejudicial to military discipline. His motion was overruled.

Advised of this development, which took place when the court first opened its session, Captain Foley appeared an hour or so later with a request that, as a matter of "personal privilege and fair play," he be allowed to take the stand to reply to Mrs. Landsdowne's statement Friday.

Defense counsel objected on the ground that rebuttal testimony was out of order since it would come in the midst of the presentation of the defense. This view was sustained by the court.

Still determined to make a speedy reply to Mrs. Landsdowne, Captain Foley immediately requested Secretary Wilbur to relieve him as judge advocate of the Shenandoah court so he might appear before that tribunal Monday, when it will inquire into the charges Mrs. Landsdowne has laid against him. At that time the navy court will hear both Mrs. Landsdowne and Captain Foley, as well as several other witnesses who have knowledge of facts relating to the incident.

These incidents, as well as several other developments in the army court today served to slow down its proceedings, stop them entirely several times, and finally compel a recess until Tuesday.

In making his request to Secretary Wilbur, which was taken under advisement, Captain Foley said the charge made by Mrs. Landsdowne had made him an interested party in the Shenandoah inquiry and that consequently he felt he could not continue as the judge advocate charged with eliciting before that court all of the facts relating to the subjects under investigation.

Mrs. Landsdowne, as the first witness before the navy body Monday, will be questioned on the basis of her statement to the Mitchell court that Captain Foley had prepared and sent to her a statement she was to read to the naval court, which falsely represented her attitude on the Shenandoah matter and was an "insult" to her husband's memory.

Dr. William Beverly Mason, uncle of Mrs. Landsdowne, with Mrs. Mason and Mrs. Foley, will be called as witnesses who were present at the interview between Captain Foley and Mrs. Landsdowne after which he prepared the statement which she was to present as her statement to the navy Main street, this city, as they gave vent to lusty yells, heralding their victory.

Mrs. George W. Steele Jr., wife of victory.

the commandant of the naval air station at Lakehurst, who delivered the statement to Mrs. Landsdowne, also has been summoned to appear before the naval court.

Captain Foley freely concedes that he wrote out a statement for Mrs. Landsdowne on the basis of a conversation with her, but he disagrees with her reconstruction of it from memory before the Mitchell court after she had destroyed the original.

After the court had been closed twice and Colonel Moreland and Reid had agreed that a two-weeks recess would be welcome, a file case arrived from the war department and it was decided a recess was not necessary.

Major J. F. Curry, of Dayton, commander of McCook field, and other officers of the field Friday refuted the statements made Thursday by Admiral Albert Gleaves, retired, before the Rotary club.

"Admiral Gleaves' information must certainly come to him second-hand for he was retired from the navy four years ago and could have had but little personal experience and contact with aeronautics, either in theory or in operation," said Major Curry in an interview.

"It may therefore be assumed that he has been utterly misinformed."

"As far as I can find out he was not at these bombing maneuvers of the navy, if he was there at all. The admiral has been retired some year and I feel sure, if he knew anything about the air, he would not have made the remarks attributed to him."

PICKAWAY COUNTY BOYS' PIG CLUB

Prize winners are shown a good time in the "Smoky City" by Cooperative Commission, Pennsylvania Railroad, Pittsburgh Provision Company and The National Stockman and Farmer—Trip most thoroughly enjoyed by all the young pork raisers.

A highly tended program is being given to the Pickaway Pig club, a boys club of Pickaway county, Ohio, who are in Pittsburgh for a few days as guests of the Pittsburgh Co-Operative Commission Association, Pennsylvania railroad, Pittsburgh Union Stock Yards Co., Pittsburgh Provision Co., and National Stockman and Farmer.

The boys arrived here on Monday in charge of E. C. Rector, president of the Pickaway Farm Bureau, J. D. Briggs, county agriculture manager of Pickaway county, Russell East agriculture agent of the Pennsylvania railroad and L. C. Bridenbaugh, manager of the Pittsburgh Producers. After being given a warm welcome the boys visited the Union Stock yards, where they were shown methods of trading at the local yards, they were then given a dinner at the Pittsburgh Provision & Packing Co., and then journeyed to the new assembly plant of Henry Ford, where they were given a rare treat. In the evening they were guests of the National Stockman and Farmer Studio KDKA, where they gave their club cheer over the radio, the boys were also present when the market report was given. Their evening was concluded as guests of Stockman and Farmer at the Davis theater, where they enjoyed some firstclass vaudeville.

The Pickaway club, an organization for the production of prize winning pigs, produced club pigs at an average weight of 306 pounds at the age of six months and marketed these at a premium with a dressing yield of eighty and two-tenths per cent. The boys take utmost care in feeding their prize winners and use the feeding standards of the Ohio State university. These lads are real farm boys and have enjoyed their inspection of the Union Stock yards, Pittsburgh Producers and Commission plants, thru which agencies they dispose of their pigs. The members of the club are as follows: Donald Carter, Dennis Lamb, John Fullen, Harold Davis, Paul Graffis, Harry Carpenter, Francis McKenzie, Evan Phillips and Robert Rector.

A wonderful trip is being enjoyed by these young farmers, starting with the raising of their pigs at home they follow them to Pittsburgh where they see them marketed and taken to the packing house where they are finally slaughtered, placed on hook and finally sold.

This morning they were guests of the Westinghouse Electric Co., and dined at East Pittsburgh Rotary club guests of Westinghouse Electric Co. Shortly afternoon the boys will be taken thru the entire Pittsburgh district by Mr. Sharpless, traffic manager of the Pittsburgh Union Stock yards. Later in the afternoon they will be guests of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., where will be shown the entire railroad system by Mr. East, agriculture agent of the Pennsylvania railroad. In the evening they were tendered a fine complimentary banquet by the Stock Yard Co. They will attend a performance at one of the theaters in Pittsburgh as guests of the Pittsburgh Union Stock yards and will leave for home at 12:40 p. m.—Pittsburgh Live Stock Journal.

MURDERED AND BODY THROWN ON ROADSIDE

Akron, Nov. 12.—(UP.)—The body of a man found murdered in a ditch paralleling a lonely road near here this morning, was identified today as that of E. R. J. Bignell, of Akron.

Bignell had been stabbed 38 times and his throat was slashed from ear to ear. The dagger used by his assailant was found sticking in the left breast.

Authorities believe Bignell was slain by a maniac who assuaged his frenzied fury by plunging the weapon time and again into Bignell's body.

The body was found by Harry J. Cochrane, an employee of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.

OPENING

Of Annual Roll Call of The American Red Cross.

The opening of the annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross in Harrison township was held last evening in the U. B. Church at Ashville at which Mr. George Morrison was chairman, and pledged Harrison township and Ashville to "go over the top."

Mr. Orion King, of this city, gave the address of the evening, setting forth the purpose of the Red Cross, telling of the good that it is doing in our own Pickaway County and throughout the world. The address was made in a most pleasing manner and was the climax of enthusiasm for the Red Cross.

Mr. Joe Lynch with his assistants, Mr. Mark Haswell and "Dick" Robinson, put on an excellent first aid demonstration, showing another phase of the work of the Red Cross. Mr. Lynch's work was highly applauded and was very much approved by those who understood the vast significance of it. A quartet composed of Miss Helen Marion, Mrs. James P. Moffitt, Mr. Fred Wittich and Mr. John Gallaher, accompanied by Miss Abbe Mills Clarke, rendered several beautiful vocal selections.

The meeting was a very enthusiastic one as nearly all Ashville meetings are, and the local chapter and Mr. Harley Colwell, Roll Call Chairman, felt very much pleased over the fact, as co-operation will bring the best of results.

Walnut township will open their campaign this evening when the ladies of the Parent-Teachers Association will have a dinner at the school house when the members of the quartet and others from this city, will be in attendance.

Plow Under Residues to Help Fertility

Supply of Organic Matter Is Very Essential.

Don't rake off or burn the trash left on the fields after the crop is harvested. Plow it under. It contains plant food of a value from $5 to $15 per acre and will increase crop yields the following year.

"Even where we use summer and winter legumes for soil improvement, the main crops have a larger acreage and therefore the cover crops planted are not sufficient to maintain the supply of organic matter," says W. F. Pate, fertility agronomist at the North Carolina State college. "This being the case, it is necessary to plow under the crop residues such as corn stalks, cotton stalks, tobacco stalks, peanut vines, grasses and other vegetative matter. This will help to keep up the supply of organic matter."

Professor Pate states that the system of farming generally practiced in North Carolina tends to deplete the amount of organic matter in the soil. This causes the soils to wash and the crops to suffer under abnormal growing seasons as a late cold spring, too little rain or too much rain. In most cases, where a soil has yielded smaller crops from year to year, the reason can be found in that the supply of organic matter has not been maintained. Then, in nearly all cases where the soil is increasing in crop producing power, the supply of organic matter is increasing.

"Years ago when our farming implements were crude or inadequate, there was some reason for burning the crop residues but not now," says Professor Pate. "With heavy plows, disk harrows and tractors available, it is a crime not to turn under these valuable crop residues. By practicing fall and winter plowing, the crop residues, sometimes called trash, will be completely incorporated into the soil and no trouble will be had in the spring in preparing a good seedbed."

Bad Housing Conditions Cause Various Diseases

Colds of poultry which are similar in many respects to the colds of the human family, should be regarded critically as they may be the forerunner of more serious trouble, such as nasal or ocular roup, diphtheria or birdpox.

Poor housing conditions cause many flocks to acquire colds, especially in the fall. Chicks should be trained to roost as soon as possible, as this allows a circulation of air around their bodies. Dampness in houses should be particularly avoided. Chickens that do not have sufficient feed or the proper kind of food acquire colds easily. A balanced ration consisting of approximately equal parts of mash and grains, supplemented with plenty of succulent green feeds, is one of the best preventatives.

In preventing colds from developing into more serious trouble, where whole flocks are affected due to exposure, it is often advisable to administer epsom salts at the rate of 1 to 1½ pounds to 100 adult birds, say poultry men at the Kansas State Agricultural college.

Unsanitary pens as compared with clean ones result in a death loss of 25 per cent, experiments conducted by the Kansas State Agricultural college show. Proper sanitation includes all measures that are conducive to good health, but is probably more considered in connection with the cleanliness of houses, yards, runs and general quarters as well as the feeding and drinking utensils. It also includes the control of both internal and external parasites.

Fall Is Best Time for Spreading Ground Lime

The fall of the year is usually the best time for the hauling and spreading of ground limestone. The stubble fields are usually hard and the roads mostly good and the field work not so pressing as in the spring. Some farmers have used hydrated lime at the rate of about 200 pounds to the acre and received good results with it. Where the haul is long from the railroad siding, this type of lime treatment for soil is worth trying, because of the reduction of labor. Some men have hauled the crushed limestone in contractor dumping trucks and then dumped the ground limestone at the end of the fill and then spread with a lime spreader.

Farm Hints

Frequent cutting tends to kill out alfalfa.

Where you find scrub sires you usually find a scrub farmer.

In one year eggs and chickens worth $1,047,323.170 were produced in the United States.

Gophers "played possum" during the dry weather but are making the dirt fly since the fall rains started.

Seed corn should be selected in the field from healthy, erect and well-matured plants. Place the ears in a well-ventilated place for drying.

Field selection of good seed corn should be attended to. If the work is well done, no other farm operation will pay a bigger dividend.

OHIO BONDED INDEBTEDNESS

Increased in Past Year Over Sixty Millions of Dollars.

Columbus, Nov. 12.—(UP).—The bonded debt of Ohio political subdivisions increased $60,223,740 during the last fiscal year, State Auditor Tracy announced today.

The total bonded debt of counties, cities, villages, townships and school districts June 30, was $879,143,784 compared with $818,920,044 on June 30, 1924, Tracy said.

February and August settlements showed $263,256,453 in taxes and special assessments collected for local purposes. Of this amount, Tracy estimated $40,946,000 was paid as interest on the bonded debt.

In addition to interest paid, $65,000,000 of old debts were paid off, making a total outlay of 24 per cent of total taxes collected.

The Denarius

The word penny occurs a number of times in our English version of the New Testament, especially in the four Gospels; for instance, Matt. 20:2: "And when he had agreed with the laborers for a penny a day, he sent them into his vineyard." The coin to which the name penny is given was the denarius, a Roman silver coin in circulation in the time of our Lord and the apostles. It was the principal silver coin then in use throughout the Roman empire. From the parable of the laborers in the vineyard it would seem that a denarius was then the ordinary pay for a day's labor.

MILD WINTER

Forecast Is Made By Beaver At Zoo, Says Stephan.

Since the announcement by Sol A. Stephan, General Manager of the Zoo, that none of the animals at the gardens give signs of an approaching hard winter, Stephan has received many letters in which writers give observations regarding the weather outlook. All take issue with Stephan and assert that this winter will be a record-breaker.

Determined to stick by his guns, or in this case his animals, Stephan has been giving a good deal of time to making observations. The animal on which he bases his strongest hopes is the beaver. The beaver at the zoo is more than a month late in building his house, which Stephan says is an omen of a mild winter.

During the week another incident has occurred which almost clinches his argument, Stephan says.

The beaver is a home-loving animal. In addition he is a lover of cold weather. The beaver pond at the Zoo is inclosed by a high stone wall surmounted by an iron grating. Instead of building his house the beaver has been attempting to climb the wall. He failed many times. He conceived the idea of placing twig upon twig until he had built a pile large enough from which he could jump to the top of the wall. Since that time he has been walking on the wall, endeavoring to get through the iron grating.

This is the first time, according to Stephan, that a beaver at the Zoo has ever attempted to escape. Stephan draws the conclusion that the animal desires to travel to colder weather.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK NOVEMBER 16TH TO 22D

Various. School. Buildings. To Have Special Programs of Speaking, Music and Readings —Supt. Eagleson and Teachers Active in Promotion of Week's Observance—Proclamation.

Plans for the observance of National Education Week, November 16th to 22d, in the Circle-Public Schools, were completed this week by Superintendent Eagleson and the teachers.

Special programs have been arranged by the various teachers, including addresses, readings, musical numbers, patriotic exercises, and special topics for study by history and civics classes.

All our people are asked to co-operate with the superintendent and the corps of teachers, and assist as far as possible, in the carrying out of their program.

Remarkable progress in education has been made throughout the nation, during the past few years. More children are now in school for longer terms, and better schools have been provided than ever before, curriculums have been enriched, high schools have been increased markedly in number and enrollment, defective children of various types have been afforded special training, and even adults have found educational opportunities under public school auspices.

Statistics show that thirty per cent of the selective service men of the World War given literacy tests were unable to read newspapers or write letters home. They, of course, came from all cities and sections of the country. But we are glad to report that under the present Ohio school system there will never be any more illiterates among normal youths in our state.

Undoubtedly a wide-spread favorable attitude toward the schools exists, but it is too often purely passive, so, to arouse the public to a realization of the need for an active, constructive interest in the public school program, so vital to a democracy, it has been the custom for the past several years to set aside a week of special observance to be known as American Education week.

President Coolidge says: "The utmost endeavor must be exerted to provide for every child in the land the full measure of education which his need and his capacity demand; and none must be permitted to live in ignorance. Marked benefit has come in recent years from Nation-wide campaigns for strengthening public sentiment for universal education, for upholding the hands of constituted school authorities, and for promoting meritorious legislation in behalf of the schools. Such revivals are wholesome and should continue."

American Education Week is the only time in all the year when the entire nation is called upon to dedicate itself anew to the great task of universal education for democratic living.

Therefore, as Mayor of the City of Circleville, Ohio, and in accordance with the proclamation of the Governor, designating the week beginning November 16, 1925, as Education Week in Ohio, I ask that our citizens co-operate with social, civic and patriotic organizations in the furtherance of this commendable movement; That newspapers give all space possible to educational matters, articles, editorials and news material; That the merchants use window displays appropriate for the occasion; That the moving picture theatres flash slides urging the people to visit the schools and study educational questions; That speakers talk a few minutes before our Rotary and Chamber of Commerce clubs on the necessity of education;

That our ministers of all denominations preach upon the subject of education on Sunday, November 22. It should not be forgotten that our boys and girls will be the men and women of tomorrow, and no government will be stronger than its boys and girls. Visit the schools during the school days and your church on Sunday, November 22d.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand this 14th day of November, 1925.

Geo. M. Fitzpatrick, Mayor.

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. Will you let me help you select the memorial for your lot. Call at show room. NO AGENTS.

Columbus—A suit asking that the books of the Ohio Bell Telephone company be taken over so that refunds may be made to phone users who paid excessive rates between December 1, 1919 and October 11, 1923, was filed in common pleas court here Friday by Dr. George W. Keil, Columbus.

Dr. Keil said he was acting to avoid a multiplicity of suits and requested the court to appoint a receiver or master commissioner to have possession of the ledgers.

—O—
Toledo—Friday, the thirteenth holds no terrors for Albert F. Parent Jr., 22, a bookkeeper, and Miss Grace Kleinke, 21, both of Bay City, Michigan.

Parent and Miss Kleinke were the first applicants for a marriage license here Friday. When questioned as to whether they were superstitious, both replied they were born on the thirteenth.

—O—
Niles—A German police dog ran amuck here Friday and bit two children before it was shot to death.

The canine attacked Lillian Jones, 9, and her brother, Jack, 6, near their home.

Lillian, the first attacked, screamed and little Jack ran to her side. The infuriated dog then leaped at Jack who was trying to ward off the animal when neighbors came to his assistance.

—O—
Toledo—The fear that she may lose the sight of her left eye was expressed Friday by Mrs. Josephine White, who was burned on the face and arms by acid hurled by an unidentified man.

Police believe Mrs. White was the victim of mistaken identity. She was aroused about 1 a. m. Thursday by a knock at the door. As she opened the door the acid was hurled.

WHEN THE FARM DONS ITS GREAT COAT.

The hay-mows were full to the beams where the swallows built; the north and west sides of the barnyard were flanked with a deep wind-break of corn fodder that ran on down the old worm-defence each side of the lane in yellow zigzag walls; the big wooden pump under the turn-o'-lane tree by the barn was bundled up and buttoned to the tip of its dripping nose; the bees by the currant bushes were double hived, the strawberries mulched, the wood all split and piled the cellar windows packed, and the storm doors put on. The very cows had put on an extra coat, and turned their collars up above their ears; the turkeys had changed their roost from the ridge-pole of the corn crib to the pearmain tree on the sunny side of the wagon house; the squirrels had finished their bulky nests in the oaks; the muskrats of the lower pasture had completed their lodges; the whole farm—house, barn, fields and woodlot had shuffled into its greatcoat, its muffler and muffedettes and settled down comfortably for the winter.

The old farmhouse was an invitation to winter. It looked its joy at the prospect of the coming cold. Low weather-worn, mossy-shingled, secluded in its wayward garden of box and bleeding hearts, sheltered by its tall pines, grape-vined, hop-vined, clung by creeper and honeysuckle it stood, where the roads divided, halfway between everywhere unpainted, unpretentious, as much a part of the landscape as the muskrat lodge; and like the lodge, roomy, warm and hospitable.

Round at the back, under the wide open shed, a door led into the kitchen another led into the living room, another into the storeroom, and two big slanting double doors, scoured and slippery with four generations of sliders, covered the cavernous way into the cellar. But they let the smell of apples up as the garret door let the smell of sage and thyme come down, while from the door of the storeroom, mingling with the odor of apples and herbs, filling the whole house and all my early memories, came the smell of broomcorn, came the sound of grandfather's loom.—Dallas Lore Sharp in "The Face of the Fields."

It makes any man nervous to have a woman gaze at him.

No man is as perfect as he thinks his neighbor should be.

"A" is the one letter in the alphabet that can make men mean.

People are seldom what they seem to think you think they are.

AMUSEMENTS

Betty Compson and Jack Holt are co-starred in a picture for the first time in "Eve's Secret," directed by Clarence Badger for Paramount at the Metropolitan theater.

"Eve's Secret" adapted for the screen by Adelaide Heilbron from the Broadway stage success, "The Moon-Flower" tells of Eve, a little French peasant girl, who becomes a duchess.

Eve is a cobbler's daughter, who carries on an across-the-street flirtation with Pierre, a tailor's apprentice son, played by William Collier, Jr. Holt, playing the Duke of Poltava, sees Eve and is struck with her beauty and spirit. Disgusted with all women of his own rank, as the result of a disillusionment, he decides that here is the girl he is going to make his wife. He sends her to Paris to be educated, and that is the last we see of her for three years, when we again come upon her as the center of attraction at the Ville d'Or, on the Riviera. The duke keeps a jealous guard over her.

Who should arrive at the resort but Pierre. He has fallen heir to a small fortune and, rather than live in comfort back in the little French village for the rest of his life, has come to the Riviere to realize the ambition of a lifetime and "live like a prince" for a week. Boylike, he pursues Eve (neither recognizes the other at first) with invitations that she dine with him. She finally consents, and when the duke walks in on them, there is the dickens to pay.

A duel at dawn brings the picture to a close. It is a case of winner loses. The picture will show what we mean.

After "Wanderer of the Wasteland" "North of 36" and "The Thundering Herd" it's good to see Holt in a "dressed-up" role, tho his trusty old-six shooter comes in handy in this one too. Miss Compson, also, has the finest role of her career in "Eve's Secret." Collier is ideally cast.

INHERITS TITLE, STAYS ON RANCH

Lord Cheylesmore Has Become Devoted to Farming in Alberta.

Winnipeg.—The call of the great open spaces is a very real thing to some men. It is to Baron Cheylesmore, third of his line. And thus it is that Western Canada can add another to the list of its titled landowners. This English peer, who recently came into possession of his inheritance, is Francis Ormand Henry Eaton, D. S. O., who succeeds to the peerage as the fourth Lord Cheylesmore.

Happy Valley Ranch.
As Captain Eaton, he arrived in Alberta four years ago and acquired part of the Haunted Lakes ranch near Alix, Alberta, which he has since renamed the Happy Valley ranch. A few weeks ago he succeeded to the title, but the now seasoned Alberta farmer has expressed his intention of continuing his residence on the prairies, rather than return to the old land. He was busy all last month with the harvest on his estate.

Lord Cheylesmore was born June 10, 1883, educated at Eton, Trinity college and Cambridge university. He was a second lieutenant when the war broke out in 1914, having received a military training at Sandhurst. He joined the Grenadier Guards with the British Expeditionary force in Flanders and France in June, 1915, and served with his regiment throughout the war. He was awarded the D. S. O. for conspicuous gallantry at the third battle of Ypres, in July, 1917, and was also promoted, in the field to the rank of captain. He always intended to settle down in some part of the British dominions and he selected western Canada after a year's residence in Alberta.

English Estate.
His English estate does not include any landed property or country seat. It consists largely of city real estate, situated in London, and in such industrial sites as Coventry.

Lord Cheylesmore was a well known rugby football player and track athlete in his Eton and Cambridge days. He is a devoted outdoor sportsman and plays a good game of polo. He says he is not returning to England, but will make his home on his beautiful Alberta holdings. He belongs to the Guards, Whites and Turf clubs in London.

Lord Cheylesmore's tragic death in a motor accident recently found his son in the midst of summer's work. His presence was not required in London and he sent his solicitor to look after the necessary business connected with winding up of the estate.

CALL FOR WAR ON HAIR SEAL

Amphibians of Pacific Coast Declared Pest.

Olympia, Wash.—Hair seals have increased in recent years to such numbers that they are becoming a serious menace to the salmon fishing industry in the Northwest.

As a means of getting rid of the menace, Arthur S. Einarsen, formerly with the Washington state fisheries department, has suggested that the aid of American sportsmen be enlisted in a drive against the animals. Sportsmen, he opines, would find seal hunting a game worthy of their skill.

Puget sound Indians formerly hunted the seals for food and material for moccasins, and the seals consequently have greatly increased since the disappearance of the Indians. In a recent check Mr. Einarsen reports he counted 7,000 sunning themselves on the beaches at low tide. Rookeries invariably are established at the mouths of salmon streams and the seals take heavy toll of this food fish. Feeding tests have shown that an adult seal requires about thirty pounds of fish for a meal.

At present the only checks on the increase of the seals are the operations of the few professional hunters who pursue them for the $3 bounty offered by the state, and the occasional forays of local sportsmen.

Mr. Einarsen declares hunting seals is a very keen sport. The seal is a sagacious, animal and persecution leads to extreme wariness. The fact that there is such an element of chance discourages any great effort to exterminate the animals by professional hunters.

HEAVY SNOWFALL AND LONG COLD WAVES PROMISED

Herbert J. Browne, James Subnormal Radiation of Sun For Last Three Years—Supported By Experts.

Washington, Nov. 12.—A severe winter for the United States with heavy snowfall and long continuing cold waves, broken by warm periods of brief duration, is predicted by Herbert J. Browne, widely known ocean meteorologist.

An abnormal condition, he holds, is pointed to by many factors, including the record-breaking cold in many sections of the country this fall, beginning with the first snows in the northwest on Sept. 18, four days before the official close of summer. The winter, he believes, will be followed by a late spring.

Primarily the predictions are based upon a study of ocean surface temperatures as determined by the amount of sun's heat reaching the earth. The present weather situation, he says, indicates the world is facing a condition which will interfere seriously with crops, the cold fall and winter in prospect being but forerunners of the next two years. A serious situation developing in the southern hemisphere in the crop year of 1926 to 1927 and in the northern hemisphere in 1927 is predicted.

That he is supported by a number of prominent scientists is demonstrated, Mr. Browne contends, by the published views of Dr. Rutger Sernander, professor of botany in the Swedish national university at Upsala. This scientist predicts the return in Scandinavia, and at least in some sections of northern Europe of the "fimbul" winters—that is, three winters without intervening summers—to the extent at least of a condition disastrous to the crops of northern Europe.

The views of Dr. Sernander, Mr. Browne says, are supported by two other botanists of high standing, Dr. Helmut Gans, of Switzerland, and Dr. Rolf Nordhagen, of Norway. Dr. Gans recently quoted Mr. Browne as mentioning him among other Europeans "as supporting Mr. Browne's forecast that the year 1926 would be like 1816, 'the year without a summer,' but Mr. Browne today said he had only quoted Dr. Gans as supporting the views of Dr. Sernander.

As for 1816, when ice formed in summer in the fields as far south as Pennsylvania, Mr. Browne says 1927 not 1926, will see a return of approximately with continued cold, but with those conditions, not necessarily sharp cold spells and other conditions at intervals which will mean great damage to crops.

All factors, of which the conditions of the sun is most important, Mr. Browne says, support his view. The sun, which is described by the Smithsonian institution and others as a variable star, is for some unknown reason in a period of low activity with decreased radiation.

Friends for Long Had Laugh on Sportsman

A good story is going the rounds in London regarding an experience that befell Sir William Harcourt when he was shooting in the Scottish Highlands with J. E. Millais. According to Mr. Millais, Sir William was strolling about one evening when he spied a magnificent horned beast grazing peacefully on a little hill. In the gloaming it looked like a stag of fine proportions, and without pausing to examine it through a glass, he rushed into the house, and, seizing a rifle, advanced upon his quarry with all the stealth and cunning of an accomplished stalker. The crucial moment came at last. His finger was on the trigger, and the death of the animal a certainty, when a raucous Highland voice bellowed in his ear: "Ye're na gaen to shute the meenister's goat, are ye?"

Fate Made Mockery
of Writer's Theory

Lord Gladstone was a great believer in early rising. "I always take seven hours' sleep," he once told a friend. "I should like to have eight. I hate getting up in the morning, and I hate to get up at the same time every morning. But one can do everything by habit, and when I have my seven hours' sleep I get up." The recent revival of this story has recalled that a century ago there appeared a book by A. C. Buckland, entitled "Letters on the Importance, Duty, and Advantages of Early Rising. Addressed to the Heads of Families, the Lover of Nature, the Man of Business, the Student, and the Christian." The author advocated, from personal experience, the reduction of the hours of sleep to the lowest number possible. A note by "The Editor," appended to the fifth edition of the book, laments the death of Mr. Buckland at the age of twenty-five.

THE PROHIBITION BREAKDOWN

(An Editorial.)
Richard Washburn Child, author and former United States Ambassador to Italy, recently contributed a series of articles to our neighbor, the Saturday Evening Post, on "The Great American Scandal." By that he means crime and the ineffectiveness of our dealing with it, the most serious aspect being in the increase of criminal violence, particularly murder.
The author stated that the average man and woman were wrong in assuming police corruption or inefficiency to be the chief weakness in the crime situation. The average man and woman draw conclusions, but Mr. Child in the Post keeps away from a plain statement of them. Liberty can state the case which in the Post is intimated. The attempt to enforce the sumptuary law of prohibition has weakened the defense against crime and has increased the number and audacity of the criminals.
Unquestionably prohibitory laws have had some beneficial economic and social results. Undoubtedly many conscientious folk hold that the imposition of teetotalism is a proper function of government. But whatever our theories may be, the notorious fact is that the prohibitory experiment is producing consequences gravely demoralizing to our government, to the orderly processes of a civilized society, and to our essential protection of life, limb, and property.
In our opinion a mistake was made in placing teetotalism in our constitution in mandatory form, where it is almost irremovable, no matter what its enforcement may prove to be. Not only has government undertaken a new function of personal discipline but it is attempting to exercise it in new and arbitrary ways.—From Liberty Magazine.

MRS. EVALYN
FRANCES SNOW

Is G. O. P. Candidate For Governor of Ohio.

Columbus, Nov. 13.—Mrs. Evalyn Frances Snow, of Mt. Vernon, former state motion picture censor, today announced her candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor at the primaries to be held next August. She is the first woman to seek the nomination for governor of Ohio.
In announcing her candidacy, Mrs. Snow said: "I have become a candidate for governor in response to the urgent appeal of many men and women, who believe that my nomination would clear the atmosphere in the Republican party and that, if nominated, my election would be a credit to the party and a special honor to the women of the state. Later I expect to frame a definite platform on which I shall make the race for the nomination. The cardinal principles of the platform will be efficiency and economy and a square deal for all. If elected, I shall endeavor to give the people of Ohio a clean, sound, conservative administration."
Clarence M. Werum, a well known Columbus attorney, it is announced, will serve as manager of Mrs. Snow's campaign. Headquarters will be in Columbus.

Heat with Distinction
At last it is proved that a home heater can be good looking—ornamental, if you will—as well as a practical heat-producing utility.
The Mueller Furnacette marks the greatest advance in home heating equipment since the invention of the heating stove. It is the joint creation of master furniture designers and skilled heating engineers. There is distinction in every line of its well-balanced, walnut-grained, vitreous enamel cabinet.
And as for heat—never was there an above-floor heater of any kind that could compare with the Furnacette in heating efficiency! It heats the whole house by continuously re-circulating warm, moist air thru all the rooms. It provides more comfortable, more uniform heat than two or three stoves combined, yet uses no more fuel than an ordinary heating stove.

HARTMAN THEATER.
x x x x x x x x

Unquestionably the most important musical event of this or any other season is the engagement of the Messrs. Shubert's unparalleled success, "The Student Prince" which will be seen for one week only at the Hartman theater, Columbus, commencing next Monday evening at 8:10 sharp. According to authentic reports from both press and public the Messrs. Shubert's have out done themselves in the production of this charming story of "Old Heidelberg." They have not only selected the best cast of concert artists, but they selected their famous male chorus of sixty voices from 500 applicants from the leading music colleges of America as they did the pretty golden voiced female chorus. The beautiful music having been written by Sigmund Romberg, America's foremost writer, it requires trained voices to properly render it, and experienced musicians to play it. That is the reason the special symphony orchestra is part of the organization which numbers 125 people in all traveling in a special "Student Prince" train of seven cars. "The Student Prince" is still playing in New York, Boston and Chicago where it has turned people away for more than a year. The company to be seen here is a "special" company and is probably the pet company of the Shuberts, and after playing in this city will go to St. Louis for a five weeks engagement.

According to a close check-up kept on the people attending this marvelous light opera, many people have witnessed the performances two and three times which alone is an assurance that it must be a most unusual and fascinating operetta. It is a production that will live forever in the memory of lovers of good music, a wholesome story and costuming that is unsurpassed, owing to the length of the performance and to allow the out-to-town people to catch their train or cars, the curtain will drop promptly at 8:10 evenings and at 2:15 for the Wednesday and Saturday matinees. You cannot afford to miss this wonderful attraction.

FRIDAY JINX WAS WORKING IN FOOTBALL

Washington Cleaned up With Circleville High by the Score of 31 to 7.

The Friday 13th jinx was in working order, so Circleville high school's football team continued its losing streak.

The big Blue and White team from Washington functioning with the precision of a well oiled machine, downed the local team 31 to 7. Circleville was held scoreless until later in the final quarter.

With but a few minutes to play and the humiliation of losing another game via the shutout route staring the team in the face Wilkerson intercepted a pass on the fifty yard line and returned it three yards. Then Wallace passed ten yards to Liston, who continued fifteen yards further before he was downed. Another pass Wallace to Liston was good for three yards, which, varied with line plunges by Liston and Peters carried the ball to the one foot line where Liston bucked it over. Peters added the extra point with a drop kick.

Dellinger, phantom Washington back, scored four touchdowns, two of which came from runs of fifty-six and eighty-two yard runs. He bucked the ball over for his other two. Campbell scored the other touchdown as the result of an intercepted pass. The visitors added the extra point but that is unsurpassed, owing to the length of the performance and to allow the out-to-town people to catch their train or cars, the curtain will drop promptly at 8:10 evenings and at 2:15 for the Wednesday and Saturday matinees. You cannot afford to miss this wonderful attraction.

Peters was easily the star of the local team. Everything a good football player needs he had. The Washington coach stated after the game that Peters offensive work was the best his team had faced this season. His playing in this game has practically cinched him a half back berth on the mythical All-South-Central team. The rest of the team showed to better advantage than at any other time this year. They lost the game to the league leaders yet they managed to score a touchdown.

Dellinger's work showed that he was something besides a good press agent. Line-up:—
